Citizens turn out to voice support for Pahokee Police Department

Residents want police protection to remain local

Many concerned Pahokee area residents attended the Tuesday night city commission meeting and asked the mayor and the commissioners "Why did they want the sheriff's department to take over police protection within the city?" Residents didn't like the idea of the Palm Beach County Sheriff's Department providing the police protection, saying, "this (the police department) is something that's been in existence for a long time."

The commissioners explained to the crowd the reasons they had set forth on the venture. They also assured those in attendance nothing would be done until it is thoroughly looked at and members of the community understand the decision.

Commissioner Keith Babb Jr. said, "I am looking at all possibilities before we (the commission) make a decision on disbanding the police department." He told the crowd the commission is working for them. He said they would not turn their back on the citizens and they would remain sensitive to any and all of their suggestions and comments.

Commissioner Roy Singletary said, "This move will not be done until there is a voter referendum."

Alvis Davis, a longtime Pahokee resident, appeared before the commission and offered some ways the city could save money and still keep the police department.

He suggested to dissolve city government, contract all the departments out, eliminate salaried employees, eliminate private use of city vehicles, motorpool city vehicles and regulate their use, cut the salaries of employees making more than $30,000 per year, combine the police department with the fire department, and an all-out campaign to clean up Pahokee.

Mr. Davis said, "Apparently something is going wrong here. If it weren't, we wouldn't be in this."

Comm. Babb thanked Mr. Davis for his suggestions and asked the city clerk to get a copy of the suggestions so that the commission could review them further.

Pahokee Mayor Ramon Horta assured the group that had gathered that the budget could be balanced just as it is. However, he said that would leave the city with no surplus spending money. "I don't want us to get in that situation," he said.

He went on to assure the crowd by saying they didn't want to raise taxes. He said, "Increasing taxes is not going to change anything. We looked at the police department only because it's the biggest expense in the city's budget."

The mayor told the audience nothing would be done until it passes through the commission first.

According to Comm. Singletary, "If the sheriff's department does take over the policing of the city, it wouldn't be this year because the budget is due in September." He said there was no way a decision of this nature could be made in this short amount of time.

Shigella germ affecting Belle Glade residents

Spread of disease can be controlled

Tammy Jackson
Staff Reporter

Since May 1994 there have been over 80 diagnosed cases of shigellosis (an infectious disease caused by a germ called Shigella), primarily in preschool children in the southwest section of Belle Glade.

The HRS/Palm Beach County Health Unit is working with various health care providers, community agencies and groups to educate the public about shigellosis and how to prevent it and improve environmental conditions that may contribute to its spread.

The shigella germs are in the stool of an infected person and can be spread by people who fail to wash their hands thoroughly after using the restroom or changing diapers, failing to keep under fingernails clean, flies carrying the germ from infected food, water or milk, or food that has been handled by an infected person.

City of Pahokee votes Blue Cross & Blue Shield for insurance protection

The Pahokee City Commission selected Blue Cross & Blue Shield as their insurance carrier during the Tuesday night commission meeting. The switch from Florida League of Cities to Blue Cross & Blue Shield will save the city a great amount of dollars.

According to Pahokee City Manager Ken Schenck, the new insurance will go into effect Oct. 1, 1994.

Reports show the rate for employee per month will be unit, some people can carry the germ for weeks or months without knowing they are infected.

Most cases occur in children under age 10 but it is likely to occur in all age groups. Illness usually starts within 1-7 days after contact with the germ.

Symptoms are diarrhea, fever, vomiting and cramps.

The best method of preventing the spread of the disease is good personal hygiene.

All family members are encouraged to use separate washcloths and towels, control flies and breeding areas, drinking cups and glasses should not be shared by others, keep food preparation areas and kitchen utensils clean, and dispose of dirty diapers or soiled underwear properly.

For more information and educational pamphlets about shigellosis, please call the Belle Glade Health Unit at 996-1600.

Report cases of shigellosis to the Health Unit's Division of Epidemiology and Disease Control at (407) 840-4564, or toll-free from the Glades area at 930-3344.

The family rate will be $225.60 per month compared to $349.68 per month.

Also at a lower price will be the deductible. With Florida League of Cities, the deductible was $500. The new deductible will be $300.

Firefighters awarded for acts of courage

Tammy Jackson
Staff Reporter

Volunteer Firefighter Steve Johnson was presented a "Medal of Courage" at the Belle Glade City Commission meeting Monday, Aug. 22, at the Belle Glade City Hall. Mr. Johnson was awarded the medal for saving the life of a girl who was in a canal.

According to Fire Chief Tony Tuliano, "We believe he really made the difference."

Chief Tuliano said Firefighter Johnson was at his regular employment on S.E. Avenue G when he received a call from an employee working in the fields behind Glades General Hospital. The employee told Mr. Johnson of a possible drowning in the canal near where he was working. Mr. Johnson called 911 and then responded the scene.

When he arrived at the location, he determined the general area where the victim had gone into the canal. He went in himself and located the victim. He brought her to the canal bank and performed cardiopulmonary resuscitation until medical personnel arrived.

The victim was hospitalized for an extensive amount of time but the family had been in contact with Mr. Johnson. He has since received a call from the family informing him that the victim is out of the hospital and doing well.

Also, all of the members of the Volunteer Fire Department received "Certificate of Awards" for the services to the City of Belle Glade.

Chief Tuliano said a volunteer firefighter has to undergo strenuous training regimens and complete a 30-hour standard firefighter course. He said in the wake of major incidents, volunteer firefighters are required to report for duty.

It was the summer of '69. The summer of Woodstock, the moon landing and the Miracle Mets. And it was the summer that a hurricane hit the United States.

Twenty-five years ago this week Hurricane Camille slammed into Louisiana and Mississippi. This was no ordinary hurricane. Camille was a monster, a storm with 190 mph sustained winds and one of the lowest barometric readings ever—26.73 inches.

Hurricanes not only have names they also have numbers. We rank hurricanes on a scale of one to five with five being the worst. Camille was a category five hurricane. She holds the distinction as one of only two category five ever to strike the United States. (By the way, the other category five hurricane struck the Florida Keys in 1935).

If you read the history books, you'll discover the usual reports about Camille. Such as the number of people she killed (over 400) and the amount of damage she caused ($1 billion). But to really appreciate the power of this storm you have to visit it a slab of concrete in the town of Pass Christian, Mississippi.

The slab is all that's left of the Richelieu Apartments. The Richelieu was a three story apartment complex located about 100 yards from the Gulf of Mexico. The entire building was literally wiped away by Hurricane Camille.

As a hurricane nears the coast it produces a wall of water called a storm surge. The size of that wall of water is determined by the power of the storm and depth of the ocean near the coast. Camille was a huge storm and the coastline near the Richelieu was quite shallow. It turned out to be a deadly combination.

When Hurricane Camille hit Mississippi on the night of Aug. 17 she produced a 24 foot storm surge. That surge of water destroyed everything within a few hundred yards of the Gulf, including the Richelieu.

If you're finding it hard to imagine just how powerful water can be consider that one cubic yard of water weighs 1,700 pounds. Multiply that by several times and you begin to understand the power of a storm surge.

Mary Ann Gerlich knows all about the power of water. Mary Ann was in the Richelieu apartment building along with 23 other people the night Camille came calling. Mary Ann and her friends were having a hurricane party.

The party ended abruptly when Camille's 24 foot storm surge swept across the Richelieu. As the water rose toward the ceiling of her second floor apartment, Mary Ann swam out a window. She was found the next morning clinging to a tree five miles away. She survived but her 23 friends did not.

The Richelieu apartments were never rebuilt. Today, the slab of the building is a memorial to the power of a hurricane. When I walked around that slab a few years ago I noticed bits of bathroom tile, old pipes and pieces of the roof. What I really saw, however, was the power of a hurricane. It is the most powerful storm on earth. Just ask anyone in Pass Christian, Miss.

Belle Glade Police Department arrest juveniles and adults

Tammy Jackson
Staff Reporter

With the heat comes the influx of criminal activity. Not only is it happening in big metropolitan cities, it's occurring in small, laid back towns: It's even occurring in Belle Glade.

Police Chief Michael Miller and the Belle Glade Police Department is constantly working on ways to assure the community that they can feel safe in this town because the officers are looking out for their best interest and the welfare of their families.

Reports from the Belle Glade Police Department indicate there were numerous arrests within the city relating to charges such as loitering and prowling to possession of drug paraphernalia and possession of marijuana from May 15-22, 1994.

Eight juveniles were arrested during this time on charges of failure to appear, motor vehicle burglary, petit theft, battery, retail theft, residential burglary, grand theft, loitering and prowling and opposing and obstructing. One juvenile was taken into custody due to a felony warrant being served.

The police department arrested 28 adults on misdemeanor charges.

Adults arrested on felony charges were:

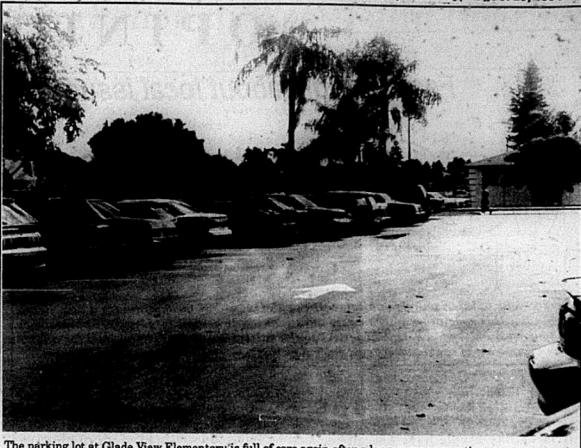

- Leon Greenwich, 30, sale of cocaine;
- Dinah V. Williams, 21, burglary, grand theft and dealing in stolen property;
- Rufus L. Williams, 19, bat-

try on law enforcement officer, resisting arrest with violence and aggravated assault;

- Malcolm Holland, 18, aggravated assault;
- Robert E. Coney, 30, possession of marijuana under 20 grams;

- Steven Jordan, 25, burglary and possession of burglary tools
- Patrick D. Bradley, 18, residential burglary and grand theft.

This column lists arrest, not convictions unless otherwise stated. Anyone listed here who is later found not guilty or has had the charges against them dropped is welcome to inform the newspaper. We will confirm the information and print it.

The parking lot at Glade View Elementary is full of cars again after a long summer vacation.

New item on Ad Valorem tax bills explained; district installs toll-free number to answer tax questions

It's not a new tax, but homeowners within the boundaries of the South Florida Water Management District are going to notice a new item called the Everglades Construction Project on their 1995 ad valorem tax notice. It indicates how much of their property tax money is going to the construction of a wetland filtration project for Everglades restoration.

Based on an average home with a value of $125,000, this will mean $10 will be dedicated to construction projects needed for the clean-up and restoration of the Everglades. Other funds will come from agriculture and the state and federal governments to pay for the total project, estimated to cost $685 million over the next 20 years.

A similar one-tenth of a mill was collected last year by the district and dedicated to a special fund for Everglades restoration. It was not separated out on the tax bill but was included as part of the total ad valorem tax collected by the district.

With the passage of the Everglades Forever Act of 1994, the district will list the tax separately on the annual tax notice to inform homeowners of the commitment to the Everglades protection.

Those notices will soon be mailed throughout the 16 counties within the District's boundary. Excluded from the Everglades Construction Project tax are homeowners residing in the Big Cypress Basin, which includes all of Collier County.

Concerned that some residents may be confused by the one-tenth mill, the district has installed a free information hotline to explain the item. By dialing 1-800-662-8876, callers will hear a recorded explanation - in English or Spanish - as to why they are seeing this for the first time.

Callers using the hotline during office hours will also have the opportunity to speak to someone in person with their budget questions. After hours, callers can leave their name and phone number on a recording for a return call.

The South Florida Water Management District covers an area consisting of a portion of Orange County to the Florida Keys and from Ft. Myers to Ft. Pierce. The district serves a population of five million residents with a mission of environmental protection and enhancement, flood protection, water supply, and water quality protection.

Police officers prefer representation

According to Jimmy Holderfield, Fraternal Order of Police Florida State Lodge President, the police officers in Belle Glade voted Thursday, Aug. 18, to keep the FOP as their collective bargaining representative. The turn out for the issue was 100 percent with the vote 23 for the FOP and seven votes for no representation.

The vote follows two years of negotiations between the city and the FOP which ended with the 7:30 a.m. impasse hearing meeting earlier this year. According to Mr. Holderfield, the members of the police are excited and ready to return to the negotiations table.

President Holderfield announced that on Aug. 17 at the meeting of Belle Glade FOP Lodge 135, District Director Paul Fafeita, acting on behalf of President Holderfield awarded Shawn Stambaugh a $1,000 college scholarship from the Florida Lodge State, Fraternal Order of Police. The state for this scholarship and the scholarship is open to the students of its more than 22,000 law enforcement members around the state.

Shawn will be entering University of South Florida.

He is the son of Belle Glade Police Sgt. Curtis Stambaugh.

Canal

I'd like to put in a complaint about the canal on Airport Road east of Dino's all the way out to the end.

It looks like people have used it for a garbage pile. I've been living out here for two years now and no one seems to care about that canal.

It seems like people who live along that canal do not care how much their property value goes down with that ditch looking like that. Seems to me, the people who live along that ditch would have gumption enough to clean it.

When I moved out there the ditch looked bad and I worked for a year cleaning it out. People, of course, will throw cans in there, we understand that, (which I did dip out), but it seems like nobody else along this canal gives a darn about things.

Every time it rains the ditch gets full and all their garbage flows over into mine and I've had to clean it out again.

It seems like the city, the state, or somebody, would once a year go out there and clean that ditch out and get all that garbage out of it, not just the leaves and weeds, but cans, bottles, baseball bats, fishing line, etc.

It's a shame and a disgrace that any community won't do something about it.

I'd just like something to be done about it if at all possible. Thank you.

Editor's note: We spoke with Belle Glade City Manager Lomax Harrelle. He said his office has been working on this problem for several months. It seems the problem was determining who owns and is responsible for that canal. It has now been determined that most of the canal belongs to the county and a small portion belongs to the South Florida Conservancy District. Mr. Harrelle said the city has now requested that the county clean out the canal.

Thank you for Speaking Out.

Civic pride

What can the city, and nice neighbors, do to force a landlord who lets his rental properties become an eyesore in the area to clean up the property and generally take some responsibility and civic pride? We can name the landlord, but figure Speak Out couldn't publish this.

We're tired of his irresponsibility. It's been going on for years and it's ruining the neighborhood.

Editor's note: While we were on the phone to Mr. Harrelle, we also asked him about your question. He said their is not a lot the city can do. There is an ordinance that lets the city require a property owner to mow the grass if it get 24 inches or higher. Also, the city can remove junked cars if they are on the city's right-of-way.

Let's stick together

I just found out that the City of Pahokee's Commissioners are thinking about terminating the city police department for budget reasons.

The citizens of the Glades have had their dignity and individuality for a long time. We've gone through a lot of bad press, but still held on. Now the city commissioners are giving into the county to take over our individuality.

We could be "just" Western Palm Beach County, instead of the individual cities. Please, Glades cities, let's stick together. Don't let the county take over.

New owner, less security?

I'm calling as a concerned resident of Palm Glades Apartments. My understanding is that it is in the process of being sold. One of the buyers is supposedly Dr. H. Hill.

I also heard that if Dr. Hill does buy Palm Glades, he is planning to get rid of the security.

I'd like to speak to the Sun to get in contact with Dr. Hill and advise him that the main reason the people moved to Palm Glades is the security. Just let him know he would be making a mistake, because the place would go down hill, just as other places have, without the security.

Editor's note: We spoke with a representative from Dr. Howard Hill's office. They said Dr. Hill has no plans to purchase the apartment complex. That complex is currently owned by Palm Beach County.

Letters to the editor

Dear Editor:

To have been able to represent the constituents of District 78 in the Florida House of Representatives during the past two sessions is the highest privilege I have ever received.

To be able to return for a second term unopposed is indeed the greatest honor one's constituents can bestow.

I look forward to working with all the members of the Treasure Coast Delegation to achieve better government for our community.

It is a privilege to join the

Rosenwald Elementary staff attend workshop in West Palm Beach

It is learning time again at the home of the Baby Raiders, Rosenwald Elementary. Once again, striving for excellence, the school will be implementing an exciting new reading program: "Success for All".

Staff members began training a week prior to pre-school at a three-day workshop held at the West Palm Beach Ramada Inn.

Earlier in the summer C. Salehi, J. Boone and P. O'Fallon received extensive one-week training at John Hopkins University, where the program was developed.

Chris Salehi will be Chapter I

Facilitator for the program; Cynthia Gilliam, parent resource coordinator, while Ann Percival, Diane Logsdon and Linda Krisburg shall serve as program tutors. The program focuses on prevention, early intervention and relentlessness, with the belief that "Early Child Can Learn".

Joining the Rosenwald family are 11 new teacher assistants: Anita Moorer, Stephanie Day, Cedric Allen, Karen Smith, Alfreda Knowles, Allison Jones, Latoya Billups, Terry Moore, Guadalupe Garcia, Larena Gara and Sari Caro.

We are extremely excited about the new instructional and support staff members: Shirley Justice, guidance counselor; Audrey Jackson, ILS Technician; Aleisa Jahn, EMH; Olga Vidal, Primary EH; and Julie Rainey, second grade teacher.

Ola Barron, formerly ESE contact, has joined the instructional staff again after a seven-year absence from the classroom, a fourth grade teacher.

Temporarily assisting for three weeks are teachers on assignment: Marlene Holloway, Thomas Johnson, Ronald Leonard, George Matthes, Eswin McKenzie, Alfred Owen and Rachelle Renzak.

Due to the closing of the Villa Laga Center, four CDAs and eight teacher assistants will be absorbed at the Rosenwald Center.

We look forward to a productive year with "Success for All".

School starts year off with 11 new teachers

New School Year

The new school year is off to a good beginning at Glade View Elementary.

Joining the returning 66 teachers are 11 teachers new to Glade View this year.

Prior to the opening of school, the staff at Glade View have been involved in many staff development meetings. One teacher from each grade level attended the district workshop on Language Arts Initiatives.

Another group of teachers attended the Math Fall Conference.

The entire ESE faculty received training in Crisis Prevention Intervention. The benefits of this training is that it protects both students and teachers from bodily harm on the school campus.

Glade View has a certified CPR trainer on the faculty.

Ten support staff members received this training last week. Training in CPR will be offered throughout the school year for staff as well as parents. Parents can contact the Parent Center at the school if they would like to take a CPR class.

Uniform Sale

Last year Glade View adopted school uniforms.

Parents will have an opportunity to purchase uniforms at the school on Thursday, Sept. 1, from 2-7 p.m.

Church holds celebration during Vacation Bible School

The Canal Point United Methodist Church held a week-long celebration during Vacation Bible School, Aug. 15-20. The grand finale, last Friday evening, ended with the week's theme song: CELEBRATE JESUS!

The children's choir, under the aspiring direction of Becky Watson, seemed to take on an additional, some-what heavenly dimension.

All in all, it was a week to remember!

Every child completed a special craft, learned Bible stories, memorized scriptures and celebrated the events in Jesus' earthly life throughout every activity.

Fifty three children of all ages came. Many adults worked throughout the week to make this a week a celebration. These people included Frances Adams, Lillian Blackburn, Bill' Blackwell, Linda Brown, Peggy Frank, Emily Garner, Ann Johnson, Rynette Kuntz, Bertie and Leonard Maxson, Dana Maxson, Tammy Norwood, Joyce Sims, Joe Spangler and Becky Watson.

These adults gave their time and their energy and invested their resources to make a difference for God in the lives of our children, here in the heart of the Glades.

All hunters required to take hunter education

Time is growing short for youngsters who need to enroll in one of the Florida Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission's free hunter education courses.

Archery season begins Sept. 10 in the state's south zone, according to Lt. Jim Huffstodt, GFC public information officer for the Everglades Region. Archery will begin even sooner on certain public wildlife management areas.

Parents who wish to take their children on a hunt this year should remember that any person born on or after June 1, 1975 must successfully complete a hunter-education course, Lt. Huffstodt said.

This requirement applies to all forms of hunting, whether the sportsman is using a bow, crossbow, modern firearm or muzzle-loading gun. Hunters under 16 years old must have their hunter safety card in possession when hunting and be in the direct supervision of an adult.

The 16-hour hunter education course deals with firearms safety, wildlife conservation and outdoor ethics. In addition, the students will also go on the range and actually fire rifles, shotguns and bows. A separate six-hour bowhunter course is offered as well.

Hunter-safety courses are taught by unpaid volunteers. More than 2,000 instructors throughout the state donate their time and knowledge to the hunter-safety program, according to

Lt. Huffstodt.

"Many non-hunters take the course because of the firearms safety angle," Lt. Huffstodt said. "Sometimes the whole family gets involved. They learn a lot about nature and the role of man in the cycle of life."

Information about the location and date for upcoming hunter-education courses in South Florida may be obtained by calling the Everglades Regional Headquarters at 407-640-6100.

Red Cross mailing hopes to encourage contributions

In mid-July the Palm Beach County Chapter, American Red Cross, West County Service Center sent out a mailing to residents of South Bay, Belle Glade, Pahokee and Canal Point, trying to raise awareness and solicit funds needed to maintain everyday programs and services offered by the service center.

"The response to the mailing has been good; but we hope that more will come in when people return from their summer vacations," said Jeanette Dexter, volunteer chairperson of the service center.

The West County Service Center offers a wide variety of programs, which are funded by the voluntary contributions of the community, including Service to Military Families, Health and Safety courses, Disaster Services and helping families in crisis pay past due utilities

Mrs. Dexter also said that the tax deductible contributions will be used in the West Area, helping families whose home have been destroyed by fire with clothing, food and shelter. "No one wants to see someone's home destroyed, but it is good to know that the Red Cross is there to help people get back on their feet."

Migrant housing coalition to meet Sept. 8

The Glades Area Migrant Housing Coalition will hold its first meeting of the 1994-95 season on Thursday, Sept. 8, at 10 a.m. at the Clewiston Inn, U.S. Highway 27 in Clewiston.

The Glades Area Housing Coalition is an association of growers, worker advocates, federal, state and local agencies, housing providers and concerned individuals. The coalition is committed to the housing safety and health of migrant agricultural workers in South Florida.

Topics for this meeting will include the new Florida Migrant Housing Code, 10D-25, that has changed since last review by the coalition, and an update on the migrant health care project.

The public is welcome to attend. For more information, contact Andrew Espoused at (813) 983-8141, ext. 2149.

Barnett Bank to extend banking hours

Barnett Bank of Lake Okeechobee will institute extended hours at each of its five offices in the lake area effective on Sept. 1.

Bank President and CEO Richard Coleman recently announced that the new hours will extend customer service in both the lobbies and drive-thru teller windows until 5 p.m. each day, Monday through Thursday. The bank will continue to be open until 6 p.m. on Fridays.

"This additional hour of service will make it easier to get your banking done without having to use your lunch hour to do it," said Mr. Coleman. "Of course our Super Teller machines will still be available 24 hours a day, too."

Barnett Bank of Lake Okeechobee, with $214,739,000 in assets as of

Dec. 31, 1993, has an office in Belle Glade, as well as Moore Haven, and three offices in Okeechobee. Barnett Banks Inc., with $8 billion in assets, is the leading financial institution in Florida and the 21st largest in the United States.

FPL energy-smart window treatment program boosts comfort, summer savings

Everyone should take time to reflect -- reflect the sun, that is -- to save money and increase comfort through Florida Power & Light Company's energy-smart window treatment program.

By reducing sunlight that streams into their homes, residents can lower household temperatures and energy costs as much as 12 percent. In addition, FPL is offering its cost-conscious customers an incentive up to $150 for qualifying reflective window treatments installed by an FPL participating independent contractor.

Energy-smart residents will feel the cooling benefits of window treatments first in their homes and then in lower energy costs," said Gary Koester, FPL representative. "The benefits of window treatments will be apparent particularly during our blazing Florida summers."

Other long-term benefits of decreasing heat and solar rays include protecting furniture, carpets, draperies and other items from fading and discolorations.

Treatments such as reflective film and solar screens can reflect up to 75 percent of heat-producing solar rays from windows and glass doors. Awnings and shutters also keep sunshine away from the home, keeping the inside cooler. To qualify for the window treatment incentive, customers must first schedule a free home energy survey from FPL. An FPL representative will inspect the home's windows, doors, insulation, water heater and cooling and heating equipment.

In addition to determining the home's eligibility for FPL's window treatment and other incentive programs, the representative will recommend ways to achieve other energy and cost savings.

More information on the window treatment program can be found in FPL's free brochure titles, "See your home in a new light with energy-smart window treatments."

To order the brochure and/or set up a free energy home survey, call 1-800-DIAL-FPL (1-800-342-5375), ext. 58.

The language with the most letters in its alphabet is Cambodian, with 74.
